EUKA unites entrepreneurs, policy makers and researchers

EUKA wants to support in the acceleration, expansion and deepening of this new drone industry by being a 'guide' for the multiple companies and organisations involved.

We work according to the known Triple Helix model. In this way the Flemish dronecluster brings together the drone industry and the end users in order to create a unique business platform through targeted partnerships with various federations, knowledge institutions and governments. We aim to develop a hotbed for innovative, drone-related ideas in Flanders.

Through events, learning networks, seminars and co-creative sessions EUKA facilitates the knowledge and experience necessary to offer this new drone economy all opportunities.

EUKA's operations result into advise to the government on drone policy and into guidance for the sme's and start-ups in this sector.

We look at the product-market combinations in which we should invest, both on a short and long term.

Together with all stakeholders we also reflect on the quite important question how we can position this new technology in our community.

Matchmaking between all stakeholders in the drone industry.
